

PRINSES MARGRIET HARBOUR OPENED AT ROTTERDAM MAASVLAKTE II

Photo : Hans van der Linden AeroLin Photo ©

Last Saturday at Rotterdam Maasvlakte II the new service harbour named the PRINSES MARGRIET harbour was officially opened. This service harbour will be the future base of the harbour tugs, boatmen etc which are operating at the Maasvlakte II, as can be seen at the photo the location of the harbour is close to Futureland, from where the port under construction can be seen, this is as close as it gets. Experience for yourself how it feels for the waves, wind and sand to set the stage.

Photo : Hans de Visser ©

FutureLand Information Centre unfolds the experience for you. Discover the fantastic view of the work from the Panorama Deck: with your own eyes, through binoculars or through a window into the future. Want to participate in the process of building Maasvlakte 2? Get behind the steering wheel and see how land rises out of the water. Or take a virtual trip over the Maasvlakte as it will look in construction of a new port. FutureLand offers free admission to anyone curious to find out more about Maasvlakte 2 and courageous enough to come experience the construction of this historic land reclamation project for themselves.

2033 with the Future Flight Experience. All that heavy labour may give you quite an appetite, and Eten+Drinken has exactly what you need: a restaurant with an outdoor terrace and a non-stop view of the work.

Jan Oosterboer ©

Bron: DAILY COLLECTION OF MARITIME PRESS CLIPPINGS 2014 – 272